Barbara Wesolowska
The shadow whose prey the hunter becomes, 2019

“Our sufferings do not magically end; instead we are able to wisely alchemically recycle them. They become the abundant waste that we use to make new growth possible.”

– bell hooks, all about love.

French Riviera presents Viva la Fiesta, a celebration of life, love and friendship - featuring seven international artists working in painting and drawing. The works explore energy exchanges and a lack of permanence, told through body movements and slight gestures of the human face, evoking a sense of stillness and flow, a story of solitude and the renewal of spirit.

Notes to editors:

- Artists Samuel Levack and Jennifer Lewandowski opened French Riviera in Bethnal Green, in 2011, as an extension of their longstanding collaboration. The gallery provides an exhibition platform for emerging international artists, and a collaborative public programme of talks and performances that celebrates the multicultural communities of London’s East End.
